Project details

CIOs today face the challenge of keeping their cost down while providing high-quality cutting edge IT services to the business. Complementing their in-house IT staff with outsourced remote services is one smart and effective solution.

"70% of IT support for infrastructure services can be performed from a remote location" and "remote infrastructure management services can reduce labor costs by 10% to 50%, depending on the delivery location, resulting up to 30% overall net savings, excluding one-time transition charges."
